Interaction Foundations: Meeting Notes

Lilia Jimenez and Max Jack

TOPIC: THE BATTLE OF ISLANDLWANA

Overview: Create a historical and informative interactive site highlighting the battle as well as the lasting effect. Stylistically, the site should feel like a slice of a history museum, very professional with minimal color and organized.

1. Homepage: Homepage should feature a timeline that includes the subpages [prelude, battle, and aftermath] as well as a section for forces. User should be able to hover over the timeline which will then enlarge and have a caption and then when interacted with and clicked on, the user will be taken to a different page that will discuss either the prelude, battle and aftermath.

2. Image: Images should include historical paintings and portraits

   1. The Paintings should be large and the main focus while the portraits can be secondary in terms of hierarchy.

   2. Images can be find online at Flickr and Artstor (Washu Access)

3. Color should be limited but intentional (maybe yellow or red)

   1. Interesting idea would be for the images to be grayscale and turn into color when the mouse hovers over it

4. Font: experiment with serif and sans serif
